

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE
New Year New You? Nah.
Lincoln Li-Wilson has a new alternative.
pg. 7

FOREVER YOURS
The Daddy Master has some advice on getting inked.
pg. 1

SWEET SORROW
A moving tribute to Vice Principal Anthony Pepperoni.
pg. 9

THE TEEN TRIBUNE

We live in San Dimas, there isn't actually any snow when we come back after Winter Break.
PHOTO BY EDWARD OU / TEEN HIGH

WHAT TO DO WHEN YOU WANT TO GET A FULL BACK TATTOO BUT YOU'VE NEVER GOTTEN A TATTOO BEFORE AND YOU HAVE A LOW PAIN TOLERANCE AND ARE PRONE TO SOCIAL ANXIETY AND PANIC ATTACKS

Don't.

AN IN-DEPTH GUIDE FOR A VERY SPECIFIC SITUATION

BY ANTHONY BURCH, DADDY MASTER

THE TEEN GIFT GUIDE

THE BEST GIFT-GIVING ADVICE
FOR PARENTS
THIS HOLIDAY SEASON

HELLO, PARENT. You might be reading this article after picking up a copy of this fine publication you found perhaps on the kitchen counter, or maybe by the little green dish you keep your keys and loose change in by the front door. No matter how you happen to have found it, found it you have. Are you thinking about what gift(s) to get your teenage son (or daughter, I guess) for this holiday season? Well, you're in the right place! Unlike the other articles in this issue, which were written by individual students, this article is written by a select committee of the coolest, most "with it" teens here at Teen High, who have labored painstakingly to come up with this: a list of the best, hippest holiday gifts that every teen desires, and will surely cement your status as the coolest mom (even though you're probably already pretty cool!). Heed our advice and definitely get these gifts, which are the hottest of the season.

ATN PVS14-3HPT-1 GEN 3 NIGHT VISION GOGGLES

Gen 3 Night Vision Goggles (NVGs) are finally within the grasp of the average consumer (even those in more niche professions like "voice acting"). ATN is a trusted manufacturer of commercial and mil-spec night vision goggles, and one look through one of these and you'll realize what you've been missing! If this monocular is good enough for elite special forces units around the world, it's perfect for any outdoors-y teenager in your life! Be sure, though, to consult with anyone you might buy this for because it might have a different mounting system than you're used to, so you definitely need to get some more accessories for it in order to use it properly. In fact, this advice is a little bit old, we're embarrassed to say, because all the cool kids are already rocking Gen 3 NVGs, and anybody who has a Gen 2 NVG (even if you bought one last Christmas) is already falling way behind and at risk of being bullied! Oh no!

Cost: $4500 💰💰💰💰💰

A CITADEL SWORDS CUSTOM KATANA

Citadel Swords was a custom blade making outfit out of Cambodia with an internationally renowned reputation for fine, high quality blades crafted from French 1075 steel billets. These beauties are hand forged from start to finish, and due to their insane attention to detail, are basically the best swords you can get (aside from Nihonto swords, of course, but good luck nabbing one of those as they trickle out). Unfortunately, they're hard to get ahold of, but if you happen to have a teenage son who has shown any interest in katanas, I bet you could get a few leads from him (you should probably double check because anybody who claims to be into katanas will certainly have specific preferences for fittings, etc. so you should definitely ask your teen son about those first)

Cost: $2500 💰💰💰💰💰

HOYT CARBON RX-7 ULTRA COMPOUND BOW

This is Hoyt's flagship compound bow, made from incredibly lightweight and proprietary O-tech carbon fiber patent pending design and delivering the highest strength-to-weight ratio fo their renowned line. They torture tested the snot out of this thing, running it over with trucks and dry firing it over 1,500 times! And with their HBX Pro Cams, the teen in your life with have unparalleled adjustability to their draw length. Make sure to check with that teen, too, because according to a survey of teens, only "loser teens" have the base model without accessories, so you'll want to add, for example, a picatinny Xero A1I Pro Digital Sight and maybe an Ultrarest Integrate MX Arrow Rest!

Cost: $2000 💰💰💰💰💰

HONDA FOURTRAX FOREMAN RUBICON 520 DCT DELUXE ALL-TERRAIN VEHICLE

The Honda Rubicon is equipped with a 518cc longitudinally-mounted motor with plenty of displacement and with the DCT Dual Clutch Transmission System, this ATV will make your teen the talk of the town, enabling him to traverse the big hill behind your house and even some of those mountain foothills nearby! Even though it doesn't have a trailer hitch, that's fine because odds are your teen rides lightweight and doesn't need it - just having a 500-class ATV is enough! Once again, ATVs are the hot thing this season, and anybody who's anyone won't be caught dead traipsing around the backwoods in anything less than a Rubicon!

Cost: $9,199 base (but nobody gets the base model)

💰💰💰💰💰

We surveyed all the teenagers in San Dimas and they all said that this list was "the best, most accurate list for gifts for cool teens they've ever seen" (r=0.99) so don't delay and make sure to check with your teenage son (or daughter) for any specifics/where to buy/best accessories/etc. for these gifts!

- The Teens of Teen High

SCHOOL SUCKS

BY SCARY
MARLOWE

Sup nerds, it's ya girl Scary Marlowe back with more homework tips, this time for history class. Ew! Anyways, history sucks balls most of the time because it's so effing boring, but there are...

I guess... some good parts... mainly wars and when people are mean to each other. Therefore, I present some required learning: some of the sickest burns from historical people.

Hell yeah.

#1 ARISTOTLE

Who were they? Aristotle was an ancient Greek philosopher. Basically he asked questions like “why?” and I respect him for that. Sick toga, too.

What did they say? “It is Homer who has chiefly taught other poets the art of lying skillfully.”

What's the hot goss behind that? Homer was a poet, like moi, except he wrote about really boring shiz. Like the Odyssey? No one cares, bro! Anyways, Aristotle recognized that Homer's poetry was no good and also called him a liar. Sick insult, dude.

#2 BEETHOVEN

Who were they? Beethoven (NOT pronounced “Beef Oven”) was a pianist and composer who wrote songs for classical music or something. Also a dog movie.

What did they say? “I like your opera. I think I will set it to music.”

What's the hot goss behind that? So apparently Beethoven had beef [oven] with this italian dude Ferdinando Paer who was also a composer, but a less good one I guess. So Paer writes an opera called “Eleanora” and Beethoven allegedly used that as the basis for his opera “Fidelio” (which is also the password in that Tom Cruise sex movie) and basically was like “your shit sucks but I'm gonna steal it anyway.” King shit.

#3 KIERKEGAARD

Who were they? Another philosopher! Are you bored yet? I am. This dude is way more modern though I guess and apparently the first existentialist philosopher...whatever that means.

What did they say? “My opponent is a glob of snot.”

What's the hot goss behind that? No clue. Not even Google could help me on this one. He must have definitely said it though because why would anyone make up something that cutting?

#4 ERNEST HEMINGWAY

Who were they? Ernest Hemingway was an author who wrote mostly boring stuff and then like two good books. He was known for being sad, but probably not as sad as me.

What did they say? “Poor Faulkner. Does he really think big emotions come from big words?”

What's the hot goss behind that? Okay so I guess William Faulkner, who's another boring author, came after Hemingway for his writing style, saying it was too simplistic or something. And to be fair, Hemingway does have a lot of shorty little sentences, but I guess this quote is Hemingway's clapback at how sometimes you don't need big words to be devastating. Take me for example. I'm frequently devastated at merely hearing the word “no.”

#5 WINSTON CHURCHILL

Who were they? Winston Churchill was the British prime minister during WWII (SO LONG AGO) and then again like five years later cuz he liked that job so much.

What did they say? “Americans will always do the right thing, after they've tried everything else.”

What's the hot goss behind that? Dude was British. He was probably too busy saying “cheerio innit” and eating crumpets to know what he was really talking about, but still yeah America sucks dawg.

All You Need Is...

VALENTINE'S RESOLUTIONS

BY LINCOLN LI-WILSON

H EY TEEN HIGH. It's your friend Link. Soccer player, fellow student, and as proven by a recent poll, not a piss boy or pervert.

Let's just all agree last year was a weird one. What was the deal with that latest column!? Yowee. I barely recognize who wrote that. Move upward, and onward. Or forward and upward. You get what I'm saying. And what better way to better yourself than Valentine's Resolutions.

What!? What did this crazy kid just say? VALENTINE'S resolutions? Surely he meant New Year's resolutions. Nope. You read me right. Valentine's.

See, New Year's Resolutions are all well and good. But what's an arbitrary day that starts the clock over again have to do with bettering yourself? Why do we better ourselves?

Because of love! Love from our dads. Love from people we love. We wanna be better people for those we love. So this is the day that I like to sit down after having a nice V-Day breakfast with my dads, before they give me some cash to go to an amusement park, or a movie, or go-kart place... usually all of them. Usually they just give me enough money to leave for the whole day. Sometimes, well most of the time, I stay over at Grandpa Darryl's. Anyways.

After breakfast, I like to give myself a list of things that I can do to be better for my dads and other people I love. So, I recommend you all give it a shot!

To give you some ideas, here are my resolutions that are appropriate to share with a general public.

- Get things done on time! I have a habit of procrastinating or getting distracted. Its really getting distracted is the problem. I'm always kicking a soccer ball, or thinking of soccer or thinking about how I should be better at soccer, that I forget what it was I was supposed to do.
- Get better at soccer.
- Don't lie about why I didn't get something done. My dads are real understanding, but still, when I realize I did something wrong or forgot to do something, I usually lie. Not like... lie lie. But Come up with some silly reason why I didn't do the thing, and instead will do it differently. Like, if I forgot to grab milk for dinner, I'll say - well I read Milk is freshest in the morning. So I don't think I should buy it til tomorrow.
- Work on my corner kicks.
- Set pieces, in general, is where I should concentrate. My height means I should be able to really be a benefit on the 6 yard line.
- Remember to watch the player, NOT the ball. Come on Lincoln. How hard is that to remember.

And there you go! Celebrate the love you have for others by coming up with some ways you can improve yourself!

Happy Valentines Day!

O PRINCIPAL! MY PRINCIPAL!

BY TEENY THE TEEN

O Principal! My Principal! Our last assembly's done;
The school has weather'd every prank, the playoffs played are won;
Summer's near, the bell I hear, the students graduating,
While follow eyes the Mascot's zeal; me, Teeny celebrating

But O heart! heart! heart!

O pepperoni pools of red,

Where on the ground, my Principal lies,

Fallen cold and dead.

O Principal! My Principal! Rise up and hear the bell;
Rise up— for you the rally is pepped— for you the the bake sale sells;
For you pom poms and ribbon'd wands— for you the band is marching;
For you they call, the home game crowd, their painted faces turning;

Here Principal! Dear Tony!

This foam hand beneath your head;

It's some dream that on the ground,

You've fallen cold and dead.

My Principal does not answer, his lips are cold and pale
My hero's heart does not feel warm, like pizza old and stale

Teen High is safe and sound, its semester closed and done;
From finals game, the soccer team, comes in with trophy won;

Exult, O teens, and cheer, O teams!

But I, with hanging giant head,

Weep for here my Principal lies,

Fallen cold and dead.

STUDENT ARTWORK

Artist: @PrimeUnlucky

Artist: @tortelorrini

STUDENT ARTWORK

Artist: @SoffsSketches

Artist: @Lasagna_Prince