

He's so much more than his mistakes,
and so much more than his scars..

I know he's capable of being good

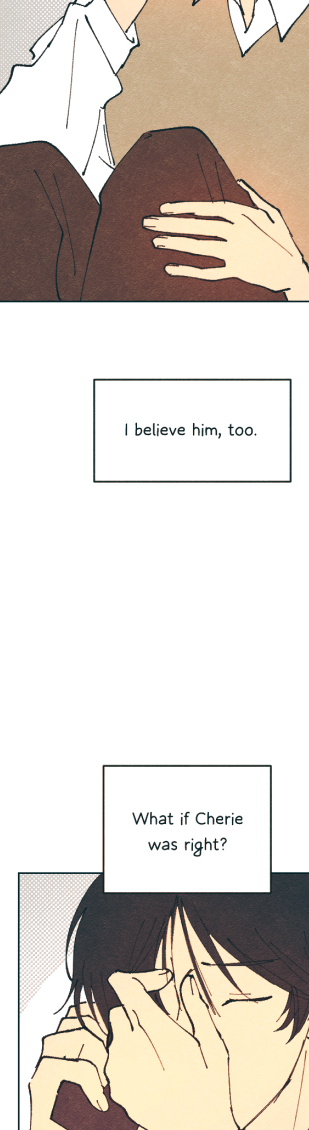

Because I see him try to be good, everyday.

I'm sure if you stick around..

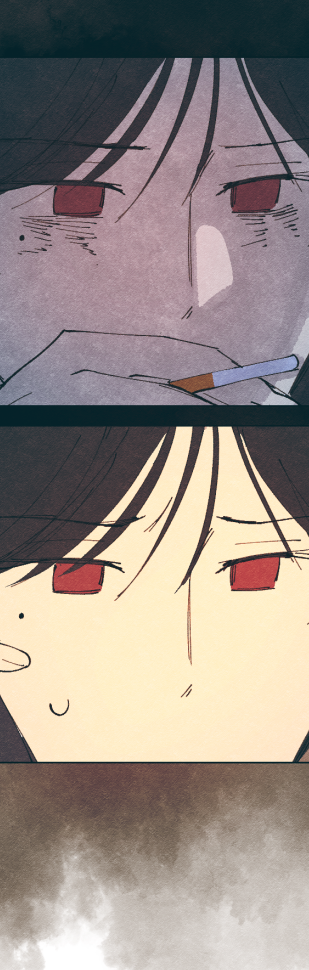

You'll see it too, Mashiro.

For the first time in my adult life, I couldn't find an argument.

For the first time in a long time, I felt the rage dissipates.

Was I wrong to think Cherie was delusional?

Was I wrong to assume Crush manipulated him?

His face said it all..

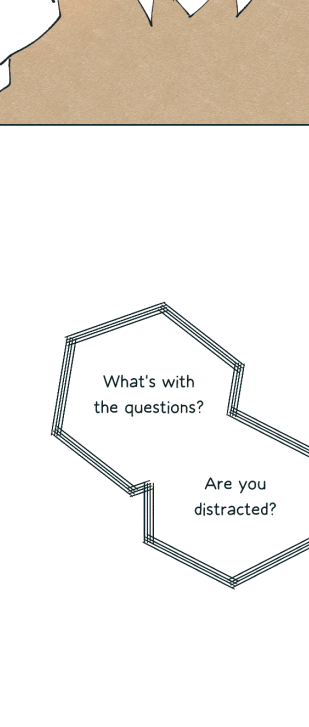

He believed every word he said..

And honestly?

I believe him, too.

What if Cherie was right?

What if the only difference between good and evil..

Is trying..?

Finally, Mashiro. Did he bite?

Yes, sir..

I'm meeting him tonight to set him up at the party.

But sir.. Do you really think it'll work?

Of course it'll work, it's Crush.

As soon as he draws fresh blood, he'll be back to his old self in no time.

But.. what if he won't?

What?

What if.. he's changed?

Changed?

People don't change

What's with the questions?

Are you distracted?